STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The National Commission for Human Resources for Health Bill, 2011 seeks to consolidate the law in certain disciplines of health sector and promote human resources in health sector and provide for mechanism for the determination, maintenance, co-ordination and regulation of standards of health education throughout the country to ensure adequate availability of human resources in all States and for the said purpose to establish the National Commission for Human Resources for Health to supervise and regulate professional Councils in various disciplines of health sector.

2. At present various disciplines of health are supervised and regulated by their respective professional Council's, namely, the Medical Council of India, the Dental Council of India, the Pharmacy Council of India and the Indian Nursing Council. The broad vision of human resources in terms of quantity, composition and quality required for enabling the country's health system to provide health care for all, is hidden from the perspective of these individual regulatory bodies. Any effort to make piecemeal changes in the statutes of the existing regulatory bodies is not likely to bring any substantial reform in the field of health education and services. To address these issues it is felt necessary to establish a National Commission for Human Resources for Health to provide an institutional framework to promote availability of health care providers in all parts of the country to reduce shortages, standardise quality and bridge the uneven distribution of existing work force in the health sector.

3. In view of the above, it is proposed to enact a law, namely, the National Commission for Human Resources for Health Bill, 2011 which, inter-alia, makes provision that the Central Government shall by notification establish the National Commission for Human Resources for Health with three constituent bodies, namely the National Board of Health Education, the National Evaluation and Assessment Committee and the National Councils, with distinct responsibilities for regulating educational standards; enforcing the standards and assuring quality and governing medical practice along ethical norms. It would also be the task of the Commission to ensure effective use of linkages in the entire health system, act as the controlling and co-ordinating agency that ensures accountability in the system and to facilitate interconnectivity among and between disciplines to meet the needs of a diverse and growing health system in the country.

4. The National Commission for Human Resources for Health Bill, 2011 inter alia, provides for the following, namely:—

(a) to establish the National Commission for Human Resources for Health consisting of a Chairperson, four whole-time members and eight part-time members to be appointed by the Central Government on the recommendations of the Selection Committee;

(b) to enable the Commission to formulate action plans for development of human resources for health in accordance with the policy and priorities laid down by the Central Government from time to time and to determine, maintain and coordinate the minimum standards of and promote the human resources, in discipline of health education and training commensurate with the requirement, of such resources in different States and Union territories;

(c) to constitute the National Board for Health Education in the place of the National Board of Examinations to take measures to facilitate and promote academic studies and research in emerging areas of health education with focus on professional health education and to ensure uniform augmentation of trained specialists and super specialists to achieve excellence in these and connected areas;

(d) to constitute the National Evaluation and Assessment Committee to take measures to develop and regulate the process of evaluation and assessment of institutions imparting health education and programmes conducted therein, and monitor the functioning of agencies recommended by the Commission;

(e) to establish new National Councils to be known as the Medical Council of India for medicine, the Dental Council of India for dentistry, the Nursing Council of India for nursing, the Pharmacy Council of India for pharmacy in the place of existing Councils and also to establish a new Paramedical Council of India for the discipline of paramedics and to confer powers upon the State Governments to constitute the respective State Councils;

(f) to enable the National Councils and the State Councils to take measures to enrol persons having recognised qualifications to enable them to practice in respective discipline of health and to regulate the profession of respective discipline of health;

(g) to constitute a fund to be called “the National Commission for Human Resources for Health Fund” ;

(h) to transfer the assets, liabilities, rights, duties, etc., of the existing Councils to the Commission;

(i) to provide for punishment, penalty or both for contravening the provisions of the proposed legislation;

(j) to empower the Central Government to supersede the Commission, Board, Committee or National Council and also to empower the State Governments to supersede the State Councils;

(k) to repeal the Indian Nursing Council Act, 1947, the Pharmacy Act, 1948, the Dentists Act, 1948 and the Indian Medical Council Act, 1956 and to dissolve the Nursing Council of India, the Pharmacy Council of India, the Dental Council of India and the Medical Council of India.

5. The notes on clauses explain in detail the various provisions contained in the Bill.

6. The Bill seeks to achieve the above objects.
